Pearson House
Upper Fairmount
private

The Pearson house stands on the east end of the village of Upper Fairmount, and its well preserved exterior is complemented by large shade trees and an old picket fence. This two-story ell-shaped frame house follows the standard cross-gabled form; however, the orientation of the dwelling was turned to present an asymmetrical street elevation. Adding distinctive detail to the Victorian period house are several features including a chamfered post porch, paneled corner pilasters, and arched attic windows.
